

Campus Safety
office of auxiliary operations

Dear Campus Community,

As of midnight, last night, Southern California has been under a Regional Stay at Home Order. We will remain under the new order until at least December 27th. While the order limits several activities, there is no immediate change to university operations. We will continue to function as we have had over the past several months. The COVID-19 response team continues to monitor the situation. Should anything change, we will update the campus community.

A note on vaccinations:

With news of vaccinations becoming available in the coming months, we would like to inform you that the university will be highly encouraging, but not requiring, students and employees to receive the vaccine. Clinical students should note that there may be clinical sites requiring SARS-CoV-2 vaccination. If a site requires the SARS-CoV-2 vaccination and you opt not to receive it, your graduation may be delayed.
