Class Registration

Registration for graduate programs for Summer trimester should occur in week 13. Classes will continue to be delivered via distance learning. Additional information regarding dates, times, and scheduling priority for DC selectives will follow later. The Summer and Fall trimester schedules are being developed together to support maximum flexibility under current circumstances and to facilitate students' continued progress towards graduation. The summer schedule for health sciences students should be shared with students this week. Registration for Accelerated Science courses is open and ongoing. Students are encouraged to continue taking their classes without interruption.

Classes

Because of the campus closure, all courses in all programs are being delivered online. Students will not be required to return to campus during this current Spring trimester/term and will not be required to return to campus for the Summer trimester/term until at least June 1. Students will receive separate communication regarding when on-ground instruction will resume. Supporting student progress towards graduation remains a top priority for the University.

Quizzes and Exams, Including Final Exams

Faculty and students will receive additional communication about testing options, including use of proctoring software, this week. Additional training about these assessment options will be provided.

Spring/Summer Break

SCU will follow the planned April 15 – May 3 trimester break period for graduate programs, so “hang in there,” students! Only two and a half weeks to go until your well-deserved academic break!
