

Dear SCU Community:

I hope everyone is healthy and staying safe. I am proud of the resiliency of our community and thankful for your patience and cooperation during this difficult and challenging period.

At this time, SCU will continue to deliver online education with students remote from campus. All students have transitioned to online learning and progress towards graduation and course completion continues as planned. Based on direction from local, state, and federal governments, we are expecting to continue distance education through week 10 of the Summer trimester.

We are committed to clear communication and are expanding our COVID-19 website to include program-specific content. Faculty will continue to communicate class-specific information. The new, program-specific pages on the COVID-19 website will be continually updated and should serve as the go-to repository for program information. Please take the time to visit this valuable resource.

SCU is committed to providing a high-quality educational experience that teaches whole-person care and empowers students to become patient-centered practitioners. This has not and will not change. Other than the usual, annual adjustments to tuition and fees, which were approved prior to COVID-19 and only impact new students, SCU will not be adjusting tuition, fees, or refund policies as a result of COVID-19. While we recognize students are experiencing changes in schedules and delivery methods due to the state and nation-wide closures, SCU continues to provide students with the education and credits to pursue their degrees.

Individual program directors will announce virtual forums for their students to meet with program leadership by this Friday. The program forums will be excellent opportunities to share updates, ask questions, and stay close as a community.

We may all be working and studying remotely, but we're still strong together. I'm grateful for the way each of you contribute to making SCU an incredible place to work, study, and grow.

Sincerely,

John
